Sensory Modulation & Regulation:

An Emerging Practice Area for Day Treatment Programs

$150 Members/$175 Nonmembers

May 20, 2009 3:00-4:00 EDT/12:00-1:00 PDT

Presenters:

Linda Denton, MS, OTR/L has been in the field of Occupational Therapy for 28 years and is currently at Middlesex Hospital in their Day Treatment Program. She created and implemented a sensory program on both the inpatient unit and day treatment programs, and is consulting with other area hospitals on program development.

Terri DiPietro OTR/L, MBA has been an Occupational Therapist since 1985. She is a Professor of Occupational Therapy at Quinnipiac University and has been a member of the AABH board of Directors since 2003. Terri has been collaborating with Linda to bring the Sensory Modulation and Regulation Program to areas in the hospital system other than the inpatient unit.

Why you should register —

There is a national movement changing the way mental health services are delivered in all psychiatric health-care settings. Sensory-based interventions are valuable resources as cultures of care shift to promote a climate for humane, client-centered, and recovery-oriented practice, within the often chaotic and complex treatment environments available to date. Please join us to learn about the theory and practice behind this approach, the sensory program at Middlesex Hospital's Day Treatment Programs, and benefits for your patients and program.

Please note: You may have more than one person participate on your telephone line, but each telephone line that calls in is to be registered at the registration fee.

CEUs are available for LPC, LMFT, LMSW, LCSW
